Fan-tastic win

Partying as Clarets return to Premier League

By PETE MAGILL

The Clarets' promotion to the Premier League sparked days of celebrations across Burnley and Pendle.

Wade Elliott's first-half strike means that the club is in line for a £60million windfall and can look forward to playing the likes of Manchester United, Liverpool and Blackburn Rovers next season.

There was a carnival atmosphere at Wembley where thousands of fans had made the trip to the play-off final against Sheffield United.

And in Burnley town centre jubilant fans spilled out of the pubs and danced in the street after the final whistle.

There were further celebrations on Wednesday night as thousands lined the streets for the team's victory parade.

Gemma Harrison, 26, who watched the game in Walkabout, in Burnley, said: "All our family have gone down to London and left us behind, so we had to join the party here. It's a fantastic atmosphere."

Tom Ferguson, 49, of Brierfield, said: "Burnley are back where they belong. I remember last time Liverpool and Manchester United played at Turf Moor and they'll have a tough time. This is wonderful news for the town."

Alan Dickinson, 51, of York Street, who watched the game at Colne's Morris Dancers pub, said: "The atmosphere was absolutely electric. I have got no fingernails left now.

"I thought it was good when we played Reading, but this is so much better. I used to watch them in the top flight and to get back there is fantastic.

"I can't wait for the games next season against Blackburn. We will be better than them."

Clarets' Wembley glory

Burnley are back in the big time after 33 years following an amazing day at Wembley.

The victory sparked one of the biggest celebrations ever seen in the town, as the club's fantastic supporters saluted magnificent manager Owen Coyle and his superb squad.

Roared on by 36,000 who outsang their Yorkshire rivals, the Clarets triumphed over Sheffield United thanks to another wonder goal – this time from Wade Elliott.

Burnley were by far the better side, but the slender 1-0 lead made for almost unbearable tension. And when the final whistle came in the 95th minute, fans, players, backroom staff and officials combined to create a Burnley roar like never heard before

It had been billed as the £200million game, but this victory was priceless. In a town so linked to its football club, everyone will feel immense pride. The Clarets are in the Premier League!

It had been labelled the 'Dare to Dream' season, but this was a fairytale ending.

A symbol of this was Burnley's giant of a centre-half Clarke Carlisle. Interviewed on the pitch moments after the final whistle, the man of the match appeared close to tears as he pointed around the stadium and saluted the 'magnificent' fans.

Vampire from E Lancs?

By SALLY HENFIELD

Blood-sucking vampire, or a humble East Lancashire cotton weaver?

Burnley-born Sarah Ellen Roberts, nee Gargett, who died 96 years ago in Peru, is one of the most iconic cult figures in the South American country.

According to Peruvian legend, she had to be buried there as nowhere else in the world would take the casket of a woman believed to be one of the three brides of Dracula.

But historians in East Lancashire said Sarah was 'just a cotton weaver' and there was no substance in the Peruvian myth.

Now her gory legend is being immortalised in a play being written by villagers from Pisco, in the south of Peru. They want to hear from any descendants of Sarah in East Lancashire. Pisco legend says in June 1913, Sarah, of Isherwood Street, Blackburn, was sentenced to death by East Lancashire officials after she was accused of being a witch, a vampire and a murderer. They believe as she was flung, still alive, into a lead-lined coffin, she cursed those who had consigned her to her fate and vowed to return for vengeance in 80 years – 1993.

LEGEND: Sarah's headtsone in Peru

Drama enthusiast Racso Miro Quesada, who is turning the legend into a play, said: "Her husband J.P. Roberts travelled the world trying to find a place to bury his wife.

"Because of the things she was accused of, no-one wanted to have the remains. She ended up being accepted in a small fishing town in south Peru – Pisco."

In 1993, as Sarah was due to exact her revenge, her gravestone cracked. Pregnant women fled in fear that Sarah's spirit might try to reincarnate itself in their child and hundreds bought vampire kits, with garlic and a wooden stake, before descending on the graveyard to await the resurrection. When she failed to appear, those throwing holy water and praying said they had kept her at bay. Peruvian television produced a documentary of the happenings in 1993.

However, Roger Booth, Blackburn with Darwen's library officer for local history, said: "Sarah has gone down in history but, in reality, she was just a cotton weaver.

"It is understandable people in Peru may have believed this tale in 1913, but it is hard to see how they still thought she was going to emerge from her grave in 1993."

Rogue car sales blitz

By CHRIS HOPPER

A new crackdown has been launched on cars being sold illegally on the street.

Scores of 'up for sale' vehicles line busy roads in Burnley, but now police and council chiefs have teamed up to ensure sellers are staying within the law.

Officers in Colne Road photographed cars and posted warning letters on windscreens.

By law, the vehicles must not obstruct traffic, and a car cannot be left within 500 metres of another vehicle belonging to the seller. Those who fail to follow the law face a range of sanctions, including a £100 fine.

Trading standards chiefs say the legislation is designed to tackle "nuisance" vehicles being left on the streets.

Officers are also due to target Manchester Road and Padiham Road, which are similarly blighted by 'for sale' cars.

John Burgoyne, a streetscene officer with Burnley Council, said: "Many of these cars are causing an obstruction, so if we see owners, we will speak to them and offer advice.

"This is an increasing problem in Burnley and, because of the current economic climate, there are a lot of cars for sale.

"There are problems in Colne Road, Manchester Road and Padiham Road, and we will be targeting them. The numbers vary on any day, but on one day there can be as many as eight of these cars in somewhere like Colne Road."

The operation involved Burnley Council and Lancashire Trading Standards, as well as Lancashire Police. Officers said sellers should use other methods to advertise vehicles, such as magazines, newspapers, or websites, rather than parking them in busy streets. For further information, contact Consumer Direct on 0845 4040506.

'NUISANCE': Streetscene officer John Burgoyne posts a warning notice on a car windscreen in Colne Road

By-election could tip power balance

A crucial by-election is set to hold the key to political power at Burnley Town Hall.

All four of the borough's main political parties will contest the Rosegrove with Lowerhouse poll on June 4, prompted by the resignation of Liberal Democrat councillor Bernard Hill.

If the Lib Dems lose the ward to either Labour, Conservative, or the British National Party, the opposition parties would have a majority and could vote against the ruling group over key issues.

However, the BNP has ruled out moving a step further and forming a coalition with any of the other parties, which could have seen the Lib Dems lose power.

The Lib Dems have chosen Iris Gates, of Sycamore Avenue, to defend Coun Hill's majority. Labour have selected Charles Baker, of Cumbrian Way, while the Tory candidate is Barry Elliott, of Loxley Gardens. John Cave, of Caernarvon Avenue, will represent the BNP.

This month's shock coalition of Labour, Tory and BNP councillors, in a bid to oust council leader Gordon Birtwistle, after two-and-a-half years, shows how fine the balance of power is.

Only the abstention of one unnamed opposition councillor prevented the authority either being left in limbo, or a minority party leader being elected.

Currently there are 22 Lib Dems in the ruling group – but the opposition also numbers 22, with 12 Labour, six Conservative and four BNP members.

Rosegrove with Lowerhouse has proved to be a fierce battleground previously, with the 2007 poll between Labour's Paul Reynolds and the BNP's John Rowe initially being ruled a dead heat.

Store work starts

By KATE TURNER

Demolition work has started on the site where a new Sainsbury's store will be built.

The former Coach House Antiques site, in North Valley Road, Colne, has been bulldozed in preparation for construction of the new store.

The supermarket, which is set to create 320 new jobs, will begin to take shape in the coming months and it is expected that it will take a year to complete.

Jo Try, regional development executive for Sainsbury, said: "Demolition work on the existing site is progressing, and construction work is expected to start in the next few months.

"Construction is expected to take around a year, and the recruitment process will begin as the store nears completion.

"The new store will create up to 320 new full and part-time jobs.

"Sainsbury's will work hard to ensure that as many of these jobs as possible go to the local community."

It is estimated that 100 jobs created will be full-time.

Planning permission for the venture was given by council officials in June 2008 after a store war broke out between Sainsbury and Tesco over the development of the site, bounded by Windsor Street, Windy Bank and Norfolk Street.

The regular-sized Sainsbury's store, which is to take up 45,000 sq ft, has divided the community, with fears that it could decimate town centre trade and lead to further traffic on the already congested North Valley Road.

But bosses from the store believe that it will bring in trade worth an estimated £7 to £10million.

Coun Howard Thomas, deputy chairman of Pendle's Colne and District Committee, said: "I think there was a little bit of concern when the recession started to bite that Sainsbury's might hesitate, but they assured us that the plans would still go ahead.

"At least now we can see they are doing it."

Bags of choice

ADVERTISEMENT FEATURE

Our region has an array of market towns, offering a choice of shopping facilities, from independent stores selling specialist items, to national high street names.

Add to that the bustling markets, which have grown up from the first market charters granted centuries ago, and shoppers have bags of choice whatever their needs.

Whether you opt to go into town, to spend in the large shopping centres, or pop into the smaller outlets serving your own residential area and community, you'll find plenty of choice.

VALUE FOR MONEY: A bustling market

Markets have played a big part over the years in the local shopping scene, whether you pop into the traditional market halls, with their colourful stalls and friendly faces, or on to the three-day markets. Whether it's fashion or foodstuffs, books, buckets, lipstick, or lighting, you don't have to travel far to find what you need at a price to suit.

East Lancashire also boasts a fine selection of mill shops.

Out on stage is always amazing

YOU RELEASED THE LAST ALBUM WITH EMI, BUT THIS IS ON YOUR OWN LABEL. WHAT HAPPENED?

EMI went through a massive change last year. We had a good campaign the first time around and had a great time working with them, but things change. I wanted to make a new record straight away, so I just went ahead and did it myself!

ARE YOU WORRIED FINANCIALLY ABOUT GOING IT ALONE?

It's weird at the moment. My brother's been going through a tough time with work. He lost his job because of the credit crunch. I think everyone is feeling the pinch at the moment. Doing it myself and paying, I became much more focused.

YOU WERE NOMINATED FOR AN IVOR NOVELLO AWARD FOR YOUR SINGLE LET ME OUT. HOW DID THAT FEEL?

It felt amazing when we were nominated, amazing on the day, and then I felt absolutely rubbish when we didn't win! I was up against Amy Winehouse. She had two songs in the category and I had one.

ARE YOU FEELING EXCITED ABOUT HEADING OUT ON TOUR?

FIVE MINUTES WITH ... Jamie Hartman, of Ben's Brother

Always! I love touring, getting out on stage is always amazing. I haven't been out there for a while. It'll feel like I'm home again. There's nothing better than meeting people who listen to your music and support you.

Ben's Brother is the stage name of British singer-songwriter Jamie Hartman. Having released his debut album Beta Male Fairytales in 2007, he returned this year with his second album Battling Giants and is currently on tour – May 28, Ruby Lounge, Manchester; May 29, Islington Academy, London; May 30, Thekla, Bristol; June 9, The Globe, Cardiff.

Comedy on menu

Actress Shobna Gulati comes to Blackpool this week, in Victoria Wood's delicious comedy Dinnerladies. CAROLINE DUTTON spoke to her.

Ask Shobna Gulati the best thing about bringing classic comedy Dinnerladies to the stage, and she doesn't hesitate to answer.

"Being back in my tabard!" she said excitedly.

"I love my tabard. Every girl needs one. You don't need to worry about what you're having for your tea. and whether your belly is going to stick out.

"I actually texted Victoria Wood (the show's creator) the other day and said: 'It's strangely comforting to be back in my tabard'."

Shobna, born-and-bred in Oldham, is starring in Victoria Wood's award-winning Dinnerladies. The show has been adapted for stage and includes some extra scenes never been seen before.

EX-CORRIE STAR: Shobna Gulati

"I was a little concerned about how it would work before we started the show," admitted Shobna. "But I met producer and director David Graham, who adapted the show, and he assured me that he'd worked with Victoria Wood before and that she had the final say in the script, so I was really happy about that. Victoria's is the best comedy writing you can possibly do. It's a joy to work with her. She's so funny and intelligent."

Shobna is, of course, most famous for playing Dev's wife, Sunita Alahan, in Coronation Street for six years.

"People still come up to me all the time and ask: 'Where's Dev?'" she laughed. "It's lovely that Corrie fans still come up to me."

Shobna is a single mother to 14-year-old Akshay. She has a degree in Arabic and Middle-Eastern politics, speaks six languages and is a vocal supporter of Asian women's rights and various anti-racism campaigns.

● See Shobna Gulati in Dinnerladies at Blackpool Grand Theatre until May 30. For tickets call 01253 290190, or book online at www.blackpoolgrand.co.uk

WELL DONE THE CLARETS
I've seen the golden sunshine and watched the flowers grow,
Its up to the Premier League Burnley F.C.will go.
The Clarets of Burnley have done us proud,
36,000 fans from Burnley into Wembley did crowd.
Their cheers and enthusiasm made the team strike oil.
They hit the jackpot led by Owen Coyle.
Wade Elliot in 13 minutes put them ahead,
The vital goal that put the game to bed.
There's adventure next year with plenty of passion.
With a £60 million bonus on players to ration.
The area will benefit so much from this game,
When clubs visit Burnley of Premier League fame.
With Manchester,Liverpool and Chelsea alike.
Spending their money from Hapton to lovely Harle Syke.
The area is small the people are great,
Keep supporting the Clarets,the area's best mate.
